

Advice & Company
released in 1974
available on vinyl

Guitar Tour de Force

by Steve Maguire

director of Walter Reed's Soldier Family Assistance Center.

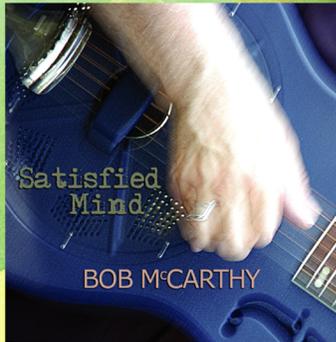

One might quibble with how much of Sudden Light is Folk or Jazz, or even World, but there cannot be the slightest doubt as to this CD being an absolute delight. With his latest, McCarthy has brought along his extensive musical tool box and built a superbly intricate guitar soundscape. Ever-smart when it comes to putting just the right musicians together, Bob is again right in his element, crafting and delivering precisely what he had in mind. And deliver they do, the currents of each of his songs taking the mind this way and that, as if along a sparkling forest stream, warm and inviting. Yet they won't lull, not with Bob's cool hooks splashing out like clear water on smooth rocks. Professional musicians, particularly guitarists, will hear Sudden Light and acknowledge that 'this is how it's done.' Music lovers will be content with a guaranteed listening treat.

"It's great music... I think it's your resonant voice and the bouncy vibrancy of the instruments, coupled with the timeless appeal of the standards that are the foundation of the project. It's just hard to get tired of it ... the CD is great."

Seattle-based author, Clay Eals
biographer of Steve Goodman: Facing the Music.

Star of the Sea
released in 2005
Wandra CD 050901

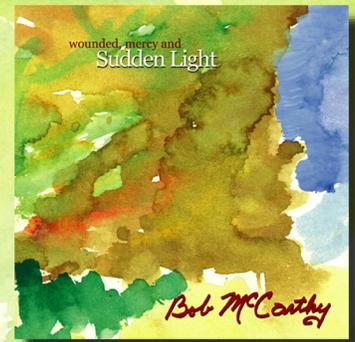

Satisfied Mind
released 2006
Wandra CD 060902

Where I Live
released 2008
Wandra CD 081101

Sudden Light
released 2011
Wandra CD 111101

New York Times bestselling author

James Tabor

The Deep Zone

(published by Random House/Ballentine Books)

...says of Bob's CD Wounded Mercy & Sudden Light "Ethereal, beautiful, stellar. This CD is the musical equivalent of poetry. Just an incredibly beautiful, diaphanous, luminous interweaving of sounds both delicate and robust."

all CDs available from

 cdbaby[™]
www.cdbaby.com